It s no odds to me what sort of money s paid. Picking up the cloth again. What kind of goods is this? Really, the more I see it, the worse I dote. I must have a coat of that, --to be brief, --and another for my wife, as well. The Draper Cloth costs like holy oil. You shall have some, if you like. Ten or twenty francs are sunk so quickly! Patelin I don t care: give me my money s worth. Whispering in the Draper s ear. I know of another coin or two that nobody ever got a smell of. The Draper Now you re talking! That would be capital! Patelin In a word, I m hot for this piece, and have some I must. The Draper Well then, first you must make up your mind how much you want. To begin with, though you had n t a brass farthing, the whole pile is at your service. Patelin gazing rather absent-mindedly at the cloth I know that well, thapk you. The Draper You might like some of this sky-coloured stuff? Patelin First, how much is a single ell to cost? On saying this, Patelin holds up a penny so that the Draper may get a good look at it. Here is a penny to seal the bargain in God s name; God s share shall be paid first: that stands to reason, and...
